POWERS SHOW SYMPATHIES WARNING TO SPAIN Germany Angered At Nationals' Deaths

ITALY SEES CIVIL WAR AS TEST OF FASCISM

Berlin, Aug. 7.

It is officially announced that the German Charge d'Affaires in Madrid has vigorously reiterated his Government's protest, originally made to Catalonia, demanding compensation for the four Barcelona executions of German subjects.

It is understood that Herr Adolf Hitler is enraged by the anti-German manifestations, and it is therefore doubted if he will subscribe to the French-conceived neutrality proposal.

The press reflects the official tone. One leading journal's comment is illustrative: "The deaths of our citizens who died for Germany spur anew to cry against the bloody terror of Bolshevism. They shall not have died in vain."

It is believed Germany will follow the protest with strong reinforcements.—United Press.

Three More Deaths

London, Aug. 7.
In addition to the four Germans killed in Barcelona, for whose lives Germany is demanding compensation, three more German nationals have been killed in Spain. These include a little girl.

It is stated that the Commander of the German fleet in Spanish waters is energetically protesting to the commander of the Spanish Government fleet with regard to the shelling of Seville and is demanding measures to prevent a recurrence of such an incident.—Reuter Special.

Test of Strength

Rome, Aug. 7.
The Italian belief is hardening that the Spanish revolt is a test of the strength of Fascism and Communism, in which some foreigners are siding with the loyalists, while the Italians and Germans may side with the rebels.

The Giornale d'Italia in a London despatch, reported "authoritatively" that the Spanish Embassy has placed an order with Vickers, Armstrong, the aircraft manufacturers, and hints simultaneously at an organised Franco-Spanish traffic in arms. This paper, in an editorial, indicates Italian feeling:

"The war cry which began as one of solidarity with the Reds of Spain, continues among irresponsible news papers and politicians of various countries and creates a spiritual basis of anti-Italian and anti-German political aggression."

Indicative of the seriousness with which Italy regards the revolt, the Government has despatched four cruisers and an unknown number of auxiliaries, particularly to the Barceloneta area.

It is noteworthy that 500,000 troops are expected to participate in summer manoeuvres in that region of the Bay of Naples.—United Press.

Leftist Anger

Madrid, Aug. 7.
Leftist anger at the foreign assistance to rebels is mounting, due to the continuance of the insurgents' threat to Madrid.

The newspaper Claridad charges that rebel aircraft and landing and provisioning at Amaraleja, Portugal.

It is announced that the former Foreign Minister, Senor Velasco, has been arrested and imprisoned.

The Socialist mayor of Escorial has imprisoned 140 Augustinian monks.—United Press.

Allegation Denied

London, Aug. 7.
The allegation published abroad that Vickers, Armstrong were fulfilling a large order for the Spanish Government for armaments was denied in British official quarters this afternoon. It was stated that Vickers, Armstrong had made no application for export licence without which no arms or munitions can be shipped.

FRENCH
CAMPAIGN
NEUTRALITY PLAN
BEFORE POWERS
NO TIME TO LOSE

OF MADRID
HEAVY FIGHTING
IN SEVERAL AREAS

London, Aug. 7.

Urging that there is no time to lose, the French Government to-day began circulating its Spanish non-intervention formula amongst the powers.

The formula has been transmitted to Britain and the French Ambassador at Berlin had an interview on the subject with the German Foreign Minister, Baron von Neurath, this evening. Presumably this talk was for the purpose of handing over the proposals.

It is believed, however, that Herr Adolf Hitler, the Chancellor, will not immediately reply to the plan.

The French Ambassador at Rome also interviewed the Italian Foreign Minister to-day, on the same subject. It is believed.—Reuter Special.

Heavy fighting is reported in the region of Badajoz, near the Portuguese frontier and it is believed both loyalists and insurgents forces are manoeuvring for tactical advantages prior to General Franco's anticipated big offensive against Madrid, from the south.

The British flotilla leader Douglas has arrived at Palma, on which the loyalist forces are reported to be planning a big attack, with twelve seaplanes and 3,200 men.—Reuter.

OFFICIAL REPORT

London, Aug. 7.
The Governor of Malaga reports officially that the insurgents at Cadiz have surrendered.—Reuter.

REPORT PREMATURE

Madrid, Aug. 7.
Three hours after the official report of the fall of Cadiz had been announced, the Minister of the Interior stated that the story of the surrender was premature.—Reuter.

Advance On Madrid

Lisbon, Aug. 7.
The rebel army has broadcast from Seville that the columns advancing on Madrid have attained all their objectives. They have surrounded Malaga, they claim, and the downfall of that loyalist strong-point is imminent.

It is reported that the land communications between Madrid, San Sebastian, Barcelona, Bilbao, Gijon and Badajoz have been severed and that General Franco has returned to Seville.

The Greek Guards at Badajoz are said to have joined the rebels and are attacking the loyalist garrison forces. The fall of the city is predicted shortly.

The Granada authorities have permitted Mr. J. H. Jordain, manager of the Secony-Vacuum Company, Spain, to fly to Gibraltar to ascertain whether an aeroplane is obtainable to evacuate thirty Americans and fifty Frenchmen who are marooned at Granada.—United Press.

Fierce Air Attack

Gundarrama, Aug. 7.
The loyalist forces have started a fierce burst of aerial warfare over the rebel positions in this vicinity, raining bombs on the countryside in an effort to hamper the rebel advance.

However, General Mola announces that his foremost advance guards are in sight of Madrid and report the rebel forces on the outskirts of the city.

The tension is so relaxed that the King is able to leave the capital for a short holiday at Corfu.

In order to curtail expenditure, the Government has stopped payment of the salaries of members of Parliament, which is now dissolved.—United Press.

Terrible Threat

Hendaye, Aug. 7.
It is reported that a rebel warship has been damaged and set fire to Gijon.

Simultaneously the Government Popular Front Committee at San Sebastian has threatened the new ceaseless destruction of the entire country unless the Navarre and Aragon insurgents discontinue their activities.

The Popular Front Committee announces it has taken delivery of thirty aircraft and says it will shortly possess three hundred.

The threat is considered a reply to the intervention action of the Catholic Bishops of Navarre and Aragon.

MR. R.A.C. NORTH HOPEFUL

The Hongkong Telegraph understands that there is every possibility that Hongkong may become the Far Eastern terminus for the contemplated Pan-American Airways trans-Pacific service from California to China.

The new Greek Cabinet has announced with General John Metaxas as Prime Minister. This man, former leader of the Party of Free Opinion which has since become amalgamated with the United Monarchist Party, is one of the strongest political figures in the country to-day. He is from the Ionian Islands.

General Metaxas holds also the portfolios of War, Navy and Air.

King George of Greece left this evening aboard a destroyer for Corfu, where he will stay until mid-September.

General Metaxas will visit Corfu occasionally to submit documents for the royal signature.—Reuter.

ASHORE
CROMER LIFEBOAT
TO RESCUE

London, Aug. 7.

The Cromer lifeboat was out to-day in response to a message stating that the 6,013-ton French ship, San Francisco, of Havre, was ashore on Halsborough sands.

There was a heavy ground swell and dense fog. The Company state that the vessel was undamaged and it is hoped she will be refloated by to-night's tide.—British Wireless.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT COMMAND
APPOINTMENT

London, Aug. 7.

The War Office announces that Lieut-General J.M.R. Harrison has been appointed Commander of the Second Anti-Aircraft Division, which is to be formed to provide further anti-aircraft defence for units of the Royal Artillery and units of the Royal Territorial Army.

As announced last month, these units have agreed to be converted to anti-aircraft units. Vickers, Armstrong had made no application for export licence without which no arms or munitions can be shipped.—British Wireless.

NO HOPE FOR MINERS
ENTOMBED BY BLAST

London, Aug. 7.

There is now no hope for the fifty-seven miners still entombed in the Barnsley pit.

So far, forty-four bodies have been recovered, but it is impossible as yet to reach the bodies of the remainder of the victims, some of whom may remain in the mine for several days, buried under masses of debris.

A rescue team found one party of nine men within fifty yards of an air intake, which might have meant safety, had they reached it. They had battled their way for four hundred yards through the deadly debris of the pit-head for news.

THREAT OF FIGHTING

Shanghai, Aug. 8.

Chinese press reports state that 20,000 Manchurian troops, equipped with armoured cars, tanks and aeroplanes are massed on the Suyuan border, ready to attack.

An unconfirmed message says they have already captured Tsoolin.—United Press.

COMET VISIBLE

A comet will be visible in Hongkong to-night. It is in the south-south-east and 30 degrees above the horizon.

The phenomenon was noticed by Mr. C. W. Jeffries, Director of the Royal Observatory, at 9.30 last night in the south-east when Captain Bayliss, manager of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home, rang up to draw his attention to it.

British Woman In
Algeciras Hurt
RESIDENTS FLEE TO GIBRALTAR REFUGE

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

Gibraltar, Aug. 7.

The battleship Jaime I, the cruiser Libertad and the destroyer Cervantes reappeared this afternoon and recommenced a bombardment of Tarifa, Getares and Algeciras. The Jaime I came close into the harbour and fired incessantly, while the Libertad and Cervantes were engaged in fighting two rebel flying boats which arrived from Ceuta to harass the attacking fleet.

Thirty British residents of Algeciras rushed to Gibraltar from Algeciras in motor buses and reported that many rooms of the British Consulate had been smashed.

The Vice-Consul's wife had a miraculous escape from death, they related.

The Jaime's first shots killed all the gun-crew of the gunboat Dato and the rest of the crew abandoned the ship, it is believed.—Reuter Special.

Watch Bombardment

Gibraltar, Aug. 7.
Residents on the house-tops here watched the battleship Jaime, a cruiser and two other warships bombard Algeciras and start several waterfront fires to-day.

The rebel gunboat Dato was set afire also, and was believed to be a total loss.

The Jaime I, apparently hit and pumping water fast, continued to cruise along the coast, firing an occasional salvo.

In mid-afternoon, accompanied by the Libertad and Lepanto, the Jaime I resumed the bombardment of Algeciras. The shocks of explosions badly wrecked the British Consulate and damaged the Argentine Consulate.

Despite the heavy shelling, there are only two known casualties.

Loyalist aeroplanes bombed San Roque, killing one.—United Press.

Consulate Damaged

Gibraltar, Aug. 7.
The British Consulate at Algeciras has been damaged by shells fired by the Spanish Government's battleship, Jaime I. All the windows of the Consulate facing the seafront have been broken.

The wife of the Vice-Consul received minor injuries from flying debris. Many buildings have been damaged by shells and several persons are reported to have been killed and many wounded.

It is believed the Jaime I has succeeded in dismantling the guns in all Algeciras' fortified areas, for after the first few shots from the warship, the defenders failed to return fire.

The fire on the gunboat Dato is now under control.—Reuter.

NEWS FOR WOMEN

SKIRTLESS and backless Swim Suits are de rigueur. Skirts, if worn, must be of the briefest. Two-piece suits of Brassiere and 'Briefs' are the latest mode. Colours are gay and patterns varied.

OME of our local Grundies would have the shock of their lives if they saw the latest swim suits at Home! Brevity is the keynote of their design. But I do hope the same Grundies will realise that it is in no spirit of mischief or desire for nudity that these designs have been evolved. They are just really practical, workmanlike models, carefully thought out to give the swimmer the greatest possible freedom of the seas. Utility is the first thought of the designers of garments for the sea this year.

THE briefest of the suits consist only of "briefs" (the shortest of short panties) and brassiere top. Sometimes the top is attached to the panties in front, but more often it is an entirely separate piece, linking a two-piece suit.

Walsey and Jantzen have many attractive new suits this year, which can be bought at all the best fashion houses and drapers throughout the country.

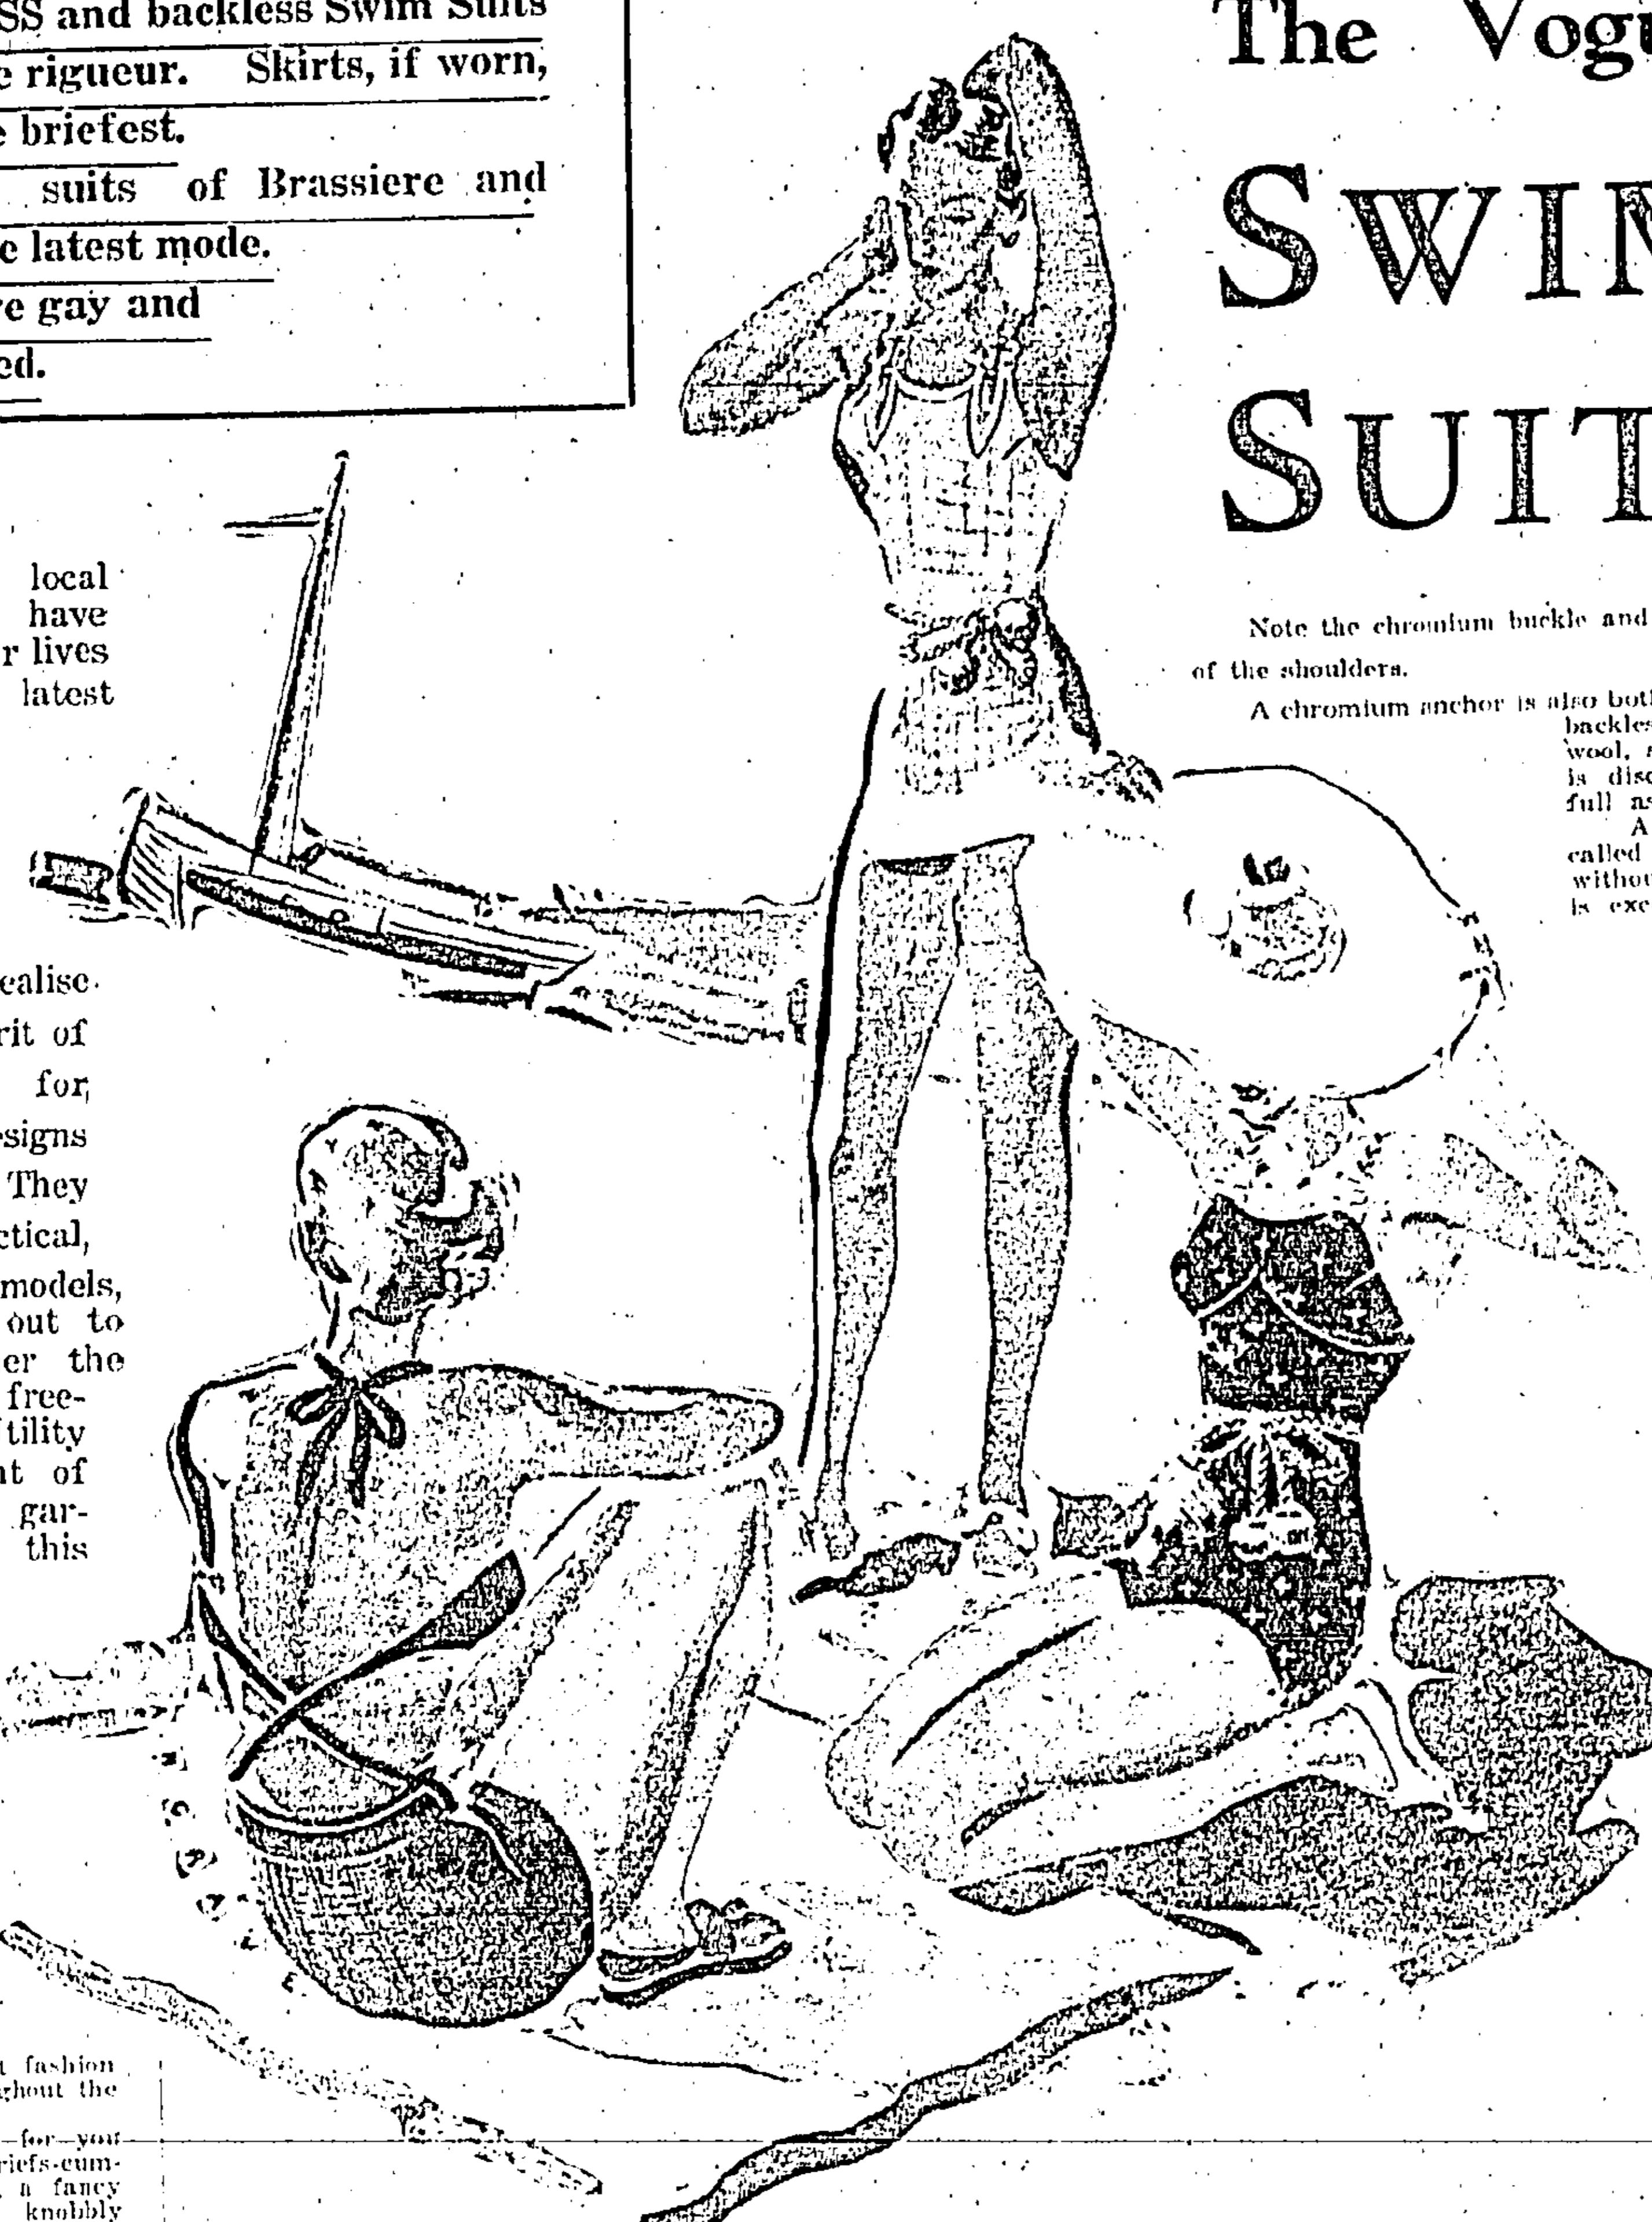

Angus has sketched for you here one of their briefs-and-brassiere suits, made in a fancy knit—designed of raised knobby squares. The top of the brassiere is held up by straps tied halter-like round the neck, and similar straps from the sides cross over at the back, and slotting through loops at the sides of the panties, finish by tying in a bow in front.

WHEN there are backless and skirtless models, the front being held in place by an adjustable halter collar or by adjustable shoulder straps which fasten on to the panties at the back. Manufacturers report that these are proving best sellers this season, and will out from first favourites the more conventional sea-suit of last year with its abbreviated skirt.

But whatever type of garment you choose it must fit like a glove and have the shortest possible leg-line.

In the sketch, too, you see a best-seller backless and skirtless model, designed by Walsey, and carried out in fancy-knit wool with a small pattern woven in. The plaited shoulder straps slot through loops at the back of the waist and carry on through loops at the sides to tie in front. You can get this model in navy with white pattern, white with red and egg-shell, jewel blue, coral reef, daffodil and wavecrest green, all with white pattern.

The Vogue in SWIM SUITS

Note the chromium buckle and anchor that fasten the straps in front of the shoulders.

A chromium anchor is also both ornamental and useful on the skirtless backless sun model in basket-work design wool, neon on the standing figure. This suit is discretion itself, so it will look well on full as well as slim figures.

A very similar Walsey model to this, called Golden Sands/2, in plain knitting, and without the chromium anchor and cutouts, is excellent value.

MATERIALS are all of the very firm, knitwear variety, and both fancy stitches and smooth-pattered weaves are extremely smart. Sometimes the wool is woven with Lastex to make quite certain that it cannot stretch and become baggy. But a really good firmly knit wool gives perfect satisfaction in this respect.

Colours are exceptionally gay. Navy, scarlet and white suits are established favourites, and will always be worn; but the newest colourings are the very clear pastel tones, which go so admirably with sunburn.

WOLSEY have the loveliest shades of corn' reef, pale prawn, egg-shell blue, jewel and ocean blue, wavecrest green, daffodil, and poppy glow. These are replacing to a great extent the cruder shades of emerald, royal blue, scarlet and bright yellow of past seasons.

In former years it was so difficult to get pastels that did not lose all their colour effect in the water that they were seldom seen; but the new clear shades show up beautifully and in consequence are sure to become firm favourites.

Another very chic design Walsey sea-suit is knitted in a very heavy stitch and has a white ground woven with an irregular diamond pattern flecked with red and blue.

MAKE-UP HINTS

By MAX FACTOR

Since the hair-darkening influence has spread from Hollywood to all corners of the earth, we suggest to review the changes of Society Make-Up. When you darken your hair you must also darken your make-up. If you make your hair light-brown, just one shade darker make-up will be enough. Your face powder would be a rachelle, while your rouge and lipstick would be a vivid vermillion. Another shade darker would be necessary if you make your hair medium or dark brown.

AUDREY'S DIARY
TELLS THE WORLD!
HER NIGHT CLUB
DRINKING ORGIES

Chicago, July 20.
"IF I COULD ONLY FORGET EDDIE. DAMN IT, I JUST CAN'T BEAR THE IDEA OF HIM BEING MARRIED—I LOVE HIM SO."

This was one of many dramatic passages in the diary of Audrey Vallette, a beautiful blonde, clad in silken negligee, who was found murdered yesterday in her bed in an hotel.

The police believe that this extract is confirmation of their theory that Audrey was killed by a jealous wife.

Search is being made for Mrs. Ruth Freed, a young blonde, who, according to the hotel staff, visited Audrey immediately before her death, and then left by car.

It is alleged that Mrs. Freed on the day of the crime entered a cabaret where the manager—her husband—was entertaining Audrey. Then she is said to have darted out, shouting, "I'll get both of you."

Audrey's slim, black diary was found on her dressing-table, and it contains amazing confessions.

"We went down to the Yacht Club. Lillian got awful drunk. Wandered down the floor naked." That is one extract.

On another is written: "It's dreary out to-day and smells like hell. I went home back riding, drank a pint and got drunk."

Again she wrote: "Lillian and I killed half a gallon of beer." And again: "A man got smart; my eye got all swelled up, but I hit back."

Still again: "I slept in a bedroom alone; I was nervous."

"THE DRUNKARD'S COCKTAIL"

And finally: "I feel so good, I could sing for one drinkin' reason. I was tomato juice and Worcester sauce that did it the drinkard's cocktail."

The name of some of Audrey's men friends figure in the diary, and the police believe that the wife of one of them committed the murder "as an act of jealous vengeance."

There were also in the diary descriptions of a succession of night club drinking orgies.

Described as being of good family, Audrey Vallette had twice been married and divorced.

She was shot by a single bullet while having breakfast in bed. As she lay dying she managed to reach the telephone and cry for help.—Reuter.

The Coronation
Coins

SETS FOR COLLECTORS

Mr. Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, made a statement in the House of Commons last month regarding the arrangements contemplated by the Royal Mint for the issue of special coins for the coronation.

"In accordance with custom," he said, "specimen sets of the first issue of the coins of King Edward VIII. will be issued for collectors and others requiring them. Sets containing gold coins will be available at special prices to all who apply."

"Full details will be publicly announced in good time, and the issue will be available to all applicants both at home and overseas."

The coins are not likely to be seen before next year. Officials of the Royal Mint are still busy with the design and other details.

Even then the "man-in-the-street" may not handle a new sovereign. There will be silver and copper coins in plenty, but the production of gold coins depends on the Bank of England.

The cost of specimen sets will depend on the price of gold. These sets are likely to include both gold and silver coins, and will probably be sold above their face value. Whether copper coins will be included has not been decided.

The sets will be recognisable by their special workmanship. They will be hand minted, and, in consequence, will not bear the slight scratches or other marks which ordinary coins run off at the rate of a hundred a minute, are likely to receive.

don't let Film spoil the beauty of your smile

KEEP TEETH WHITE AND BRIGHT WITH PEPSODENT

If your teeth are to be white and glistening, your smile alluring, you must remove film from teeth. For film dulls and discolors them, obscures their natural beauty. And the safest . . . most effective way to remove film from teeth is with Pepsodent Tooth Paste.

Pepsodent is a special film-removing tooth paste. It contains a cleansing and polishing material unexcelled in keeping teeth free from that gummy, sticky substance called film. Yet it does this safely. For Pepsodent contains no grit, nothing that might injure or harm tooth enamel.

City of 5,000 People Found from the Air

"LOST COLONY" IN THE HEART OF THE JUNGLE

There for Ten Years—and the Government Did Not Know

Singapore, July 25. A "lost" city inhabited by 5,000 Chinese and situated in the midst of the Malayan jungle, has been found by a British Government official while he was flying over the district.

The official, who was employed in the land office of the native Malay state of Johore, saw a large settlement in the heart of the jungle which he could not place. Next day he drove to it, and to his amazement discovered the city, which is called Young Peng.

The Government were totally unaware of the existence of the town, although it has been a thriving agricultural centre for nearly ten years. The settlers had occupied the land without permission, and were not contributing one penny in taxes.

The inhabitants, who are Chinese, work as rubber planters on an area of more than 10,000 acres. They had built the town as their headquarters and provided it with all the amenities of a native civilization.

EVEN SUBURBS
"Suburban villages" were also found around Young Peng, and were, in fact, a series of virtual republics hidden away in the British-protected State of Johore all working peacefully.

The area is only 20 miles from a main road, but lies in a region little frequented by Englishmen.

The discovery at once presented the Government with several knotty problems. The chief of these was whether the "occupiers" should be prosecuted for trespass.

It was estimated that the land, including arrears of rent, was worth £10 an acre. On 10,000 acres this meant that the amount owing to the Johore Government was £100,000, and the State could ill afford to lose this newly-found source of income.

Finally, after several conferences, the settlers were made an offer. They were told they could pay £10 for every acre they "owned" and be treated as "retrospective tenants," or get out.

The Johore Government have now netted nearly all of the £100,000 it expected.—United Press.

Chinese Girls Seek Place In The Sun

Shanghai, July 21.

Women of China are waging a determined campaign for a place in the political sun of the nation. Their immediate objective is a larger representation in the National assembly which will meet at Nanking Nov. 12 to adopt the Draft Constitution and replace party government by popular democracy.

Quietly but actively a group of women leaders at Nanking has enlisted the support of feminists in all parts of the country. Their aim is simple—to have the voice of 200,000,000 women heard at the Assembly.

Declaring that the small number of women arbitrarily selected as Assembly delegates constitutes merely a gesture, the women leaders hope to bring into the national councils a feminine representation more nearly corresponding to their numerical strength.

NO RESTRICTIONS
Although the Election Law makes no restriction as to the sex of candidates, the women point out that according to the provisions of the law not a single woman is likely to be elected. Candidates for the Assembly seats are to be nominated by the village or town elders and district chiefs, but the women maintain that the elders are "remnants of feudalistic society" and highly unlikely to nominate any women candidates.

Comparing the plight of women in China with that of the negro in the United States, the women issued a manifesto calling on all Chinese women to unite for the improvement of their social and political status. Alleging that the social lot of the American negro has not been improved by manipulation, the manifesto declares that the status of Chinese women has likewise not been aided by the "lip service" of the Election Law.

MEN "BACKWARD"
An Assembly composed entirely of men, the women also say, will make China appear backward in the eyes of the other nations of the world.

Women in Soviet Russia, the manifesto reminds the nation, enjoy full political freedom and may hold office. Furthermore Dr. Sun Yat-sen, father of the Chinese Republic, assigned women delegates to the first congress of the Kuomintang (China's political party), in 1924, and present day leaders are urged to follow his example.

Leader of the campaign is Mme. Feng Yu-hsiang, wife of the man who used to be known as the "Christian General," now vice-chairman of the Military Affairs Commission at Nanking. The movement has also gained the support of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, who has promised to present the women's views to her husband, strong man of China and most potent figure in the National Government.—United Press.

VICAR SHOCKED, FAVOURS CENSOR FOR EPIPHAPS

London, Aug. 1.
The Rev. J. W. Huxley-Williams, Vicar of Christ Church, Fulham—a London suburb—spent his time in the cemetery waiting for funerals to arrive reading the epitaphs and they shocked him.

He was so moved that he wrote in his parish magazine protesting against the "collection of nonsensical doggerel on the headstones."

"How some of the inscriptions passed the censorship of the local authorities. I cannot imagine," he continued. He added that they appeared to have been taken from the undertaker's stock book—of sentimental quotations, and were without any pretension to good English or correct representation of Christian teaching.

To save the cemetery from the "fiddle of posterity," he suggests that in the future inscriptions should be called from the Scriptures or else the local clergy should be consulted.—United Press.

MAKE AND MAR LIFE AT SAME TIME.
STUDY BY 700 MEN IN LONDON

More than 700 scientists, from 40 countries, met in London on July 26 to discuss the smallest of man's benefactors and enemies. They were delegates to the International Congress of Microbiology, of which Professor J. C. G. Ledingham, Director of the Lister Institute, was president.

Industry, agriculture, food storage and transport, and medicine are among the practical activities which the interests of the congress touched. Here are brief character sketches of some of the actors:

Bacteria—These are more like plants than animals. Though popularly associated with disease, they are essential to life on the earth. In spite of artificial fertilisers, they are still the most important agents in keeping the soil supplied with nitrogen. Minor activities are helping to make cheese, vinegar and pocket handkerchiefs.

MYSTERY OF VIRUSES

Viruses—Cannot be seen, but are presumed to be alive because they increase and multiply. Their size is "measured" by observing what is the finest "filter" through which they will pass. Give plants many of their diseases, as well as animals and men. Give the tulip its "rust".

Trichozoa—The smallest animals proper. There are hundreds of thousands of them in every ounce of soil. Wage unending war against the even more numerous soil bacteria. What market gardeners know as "soil sickness", results from the protozoa gaining too decisive a victory. At one time they are the basic food of all fish, and they are responsible for malaria and sleeping sickness, among human diseases, also for cattle plagues and other animal troubles.

Fungi—These are responsible for more plant diseases than any other form of life, but are used, under factory conditions, to make more than 200,000 tons of manure annually. Most popular products are bread, beer, wine, and spirits.

Actinomycetes—Fungi so primitive that they scarcely deserve the name. Are present in the soil in enormous numbers and enormous variety. Yet very little is known about them.

MORE WORK

Microbiologists believe that many of these more minute forms of life can be made to do a very much larger amount of useful work for man than has so far been got out of them. The questions they would like to see answered are almost as innumerable as the organisms with which they deal.

The congress was opened by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, whose responsibilities as Lord President of the Council, include that for the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. In addition to Professor Ledingham, four "Presidents of Honour" represented the Universities of Brussels, London, Cambridge, and Glasgow.

EVERY TIME HE MOVED IN HIS BED

World Experts Sought the Trouble in Vain

A SICK man, whose every movement caused interference to many commercial radio services, was referred by Colonel Sir Donald Banks, Director-general of the G.P.O., in a speech at Colchester when he opened the new head post office.

The interference, said Sir Donald, balled British experts and those of many foreign countries.

"America, where its effects were particularly strong," he said, "requested the assistance of our engineers, as well as those of European countries. Radio experts of newspapers wrote articles describing the interference as a rough humming note of about 120 cycles per second, but its source remained a mystery.

"I have just received information that after much investigation the source of interference has been traced to a hospital in America, where for medical purposes a large coil of wire was wound round a patient and radio frequency currents applied.

ACTED AS AERIAL

"Owing to coupling effects, high tension power lines passing over the hospital were energised, and these acted as an efficient transmitting aerial.

"Each time the patient moved, he varied the frequency, thus transmitted, and thus unwittingly increased the confusion of the investigators."

So successful has the greetings telegram proved, said Sir Donald, that the Post Office is introducing it in a new form.

In the past 11 months, nearly 1,250,000 such telegrams have been sent.

"It is a curious feature," added Sir Donald, "that during the first week in June, the number sent increased by 100 per cent. Perhaps it is because May is an unpopular month for weddings, and that many weddings are postponed from May till June."

The new form would give a sunnier-like touch both in the thought and in the form.

SEA TRIP FOR OPERATION

New York, July 15. Kelvin Rodgers, aged three, of Melbourne, completed a 9,000-mile journey to-day when he arrived in the United States to have a nail in his right lung removed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, the Philadelphia inventor of the bronchoscope.

The boy swallowed the nail 18 months ago, and the expenses of the Japanese Open Clinic To Curb Suicide Waves

Nets May Be Put Around High Buildings to Balk Jumpers

Tokyo, July 24. The suicide problem has become so important in Japan, where love entanglements and the desire to join loved ones in death cause the self-destruction of some 20,000 persons annually, that a special clinic to curb the practice has been established.

Tokyo police also are combating a revival of the practice of committing suicide by leaping from the city's taller buildings. There were three such cases within a recent week.

Ryunosuke Kobayashi, known as a "suicide specialist", has been placed in charge of an office opened by the Japan Suicide Prevention Society. He will seek to dissuade those bent on suicide from carrying out their plans.

TO INTERVIEW

Kobayashi, in his early 40s and with long experience in dealing with such problems will interview persons who have come to believe that death is the only answer to their troubles.

He will specialize in warding off shinju, or "love suicide," which has claimed many hundreds at Miura-Yama on the island of Oshima, as well as in less spectacular fashion.

Kobayashi arranged to call a meeting of educators and social workers, and to map out a series of lectures on the prevention of suicide.

JUMPING PRACTICE

Last year the practice of jumping into the crowded Ginza from a tall building apparently was in disfavour after several years which saw an average of more than a score annually kill themselves in that manner. The three who committed suicide recently were young men.

In 1931, 18 men and seven women killed themselves by jumping from Tokyo buildings. There were 22 men and 14 women in 1932 and in 1933 and 1934 there were 25 and 19 such suicides, respectively.

Police are considering a system of net construction around some of the larger buildings. Special guards are being posted. The Matsuya department store has guards at its own and a rail around the roof has been designed to prevent any climbing to the ramparts.

A CHANGE OF PREMIER?

Rumours still persist regarding the possibility of Mr. Baldwin resigning his post as Prime Minister in the near future. Some of these emanate from quarters, within the Conservative ranks, which, for reasons of their own, wish to see Mr. Baldwin out of office. There are suggestions in these circles that he is no longer fit for the arduous duties of his position and that the country is dissatisfied with his leadership. Actually, however, it seems more likely that they find his forthright personality somewhat disconcerting. Times without number, Mr. Baldwin has overcome opposition within his own party, and a few weeks ago, when addressing the London Conservative Association, he bluntly declared that he would retire when he felt himself no longer able to carry on his duties with efficiency, and not at the dictation of any faction inside or outside the House of Commons. In point of fact, the Prime Minister still occupies a unique position in the esteem of men of all parties. He has been the mainstay of the present Government since it first came into being, and for that alone the country owes him much. The Government, admittedly, has had its troubles of late. Misfortunes have not come singly, but in battalions. And palpable mistakes have been made. But mistakes, in the unprecedented circumstances of the international and domestic situation, are inevitable. The country would look in vain for a satisfactory alternative to the present Ministry, and it has no desire to look for an alternative to the present Prime Minister. It is quite clear that Mr. Baldwin desires to continue in office if his health permits. The duties of the office are extremely burdensome, and the strain to which the Premier is subjected calls for a high degree of physical fitness, and, equally important, of philosophical detachment. Besides the duties of office there are the many troublesome incidents to be borne—indiscretions of colleagues, campaigns by the Opposition for the discomfiture of the Government, and the machinations of mischief-makers who seem to become more persistent and ingenious as the years go by. It is, therefore, not to be wondered at that Mr. Baldwin should at times show signs of tiring. In official circles it is conjectured that the question of the Premier's reten-

A Crushing Majority

Not only did all party opposition to his re-election evaporate but the once great Republican Party is leaderless, planless and distracted. In the Democratic primaries only one solitary antagonist—oddly enough, a New York lawyer, Mr. Henry Breckinridge, whose chief title to fame is that he is the legal adviser of Colonel Lindbergh—dared to enter the lists against him.

Mr. Breckinridge opposed Mr. Roosevelt in three States—Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. In the two last named he was defeated respectively twenty and five to one, while in Massachusetts his defeat was so overwhelming that no one bothered even to tabulate the figures.

Hence, it was certain when the Democratic National Convention met last month at Philadelphia that it would be merely a ratification assembly. It nominated Mr. Roosevelt unanimously as the party candidate on the first ballot and thereafter gave itself over to jollity.

In striking contrast with the Democratic Convention was the convention of the Republicans at Cleveland, which had to decide between many candidates, including half a dozen "favourite sons" of individual States.

"Anybody" except Hoover appeared to be the dominating sentiment of the thousand delegates, and their thousand alternates. Governor Landon of Kansas was nominated.

Landon owes his strength to a phrase. In American politics phrases frequently play a great part. In this instance the phrase is that Landon is a "Kansas Coolidge." Big business interests worship this type of man.

tion of his post will depend on how he feels when Parliament reassembles in the autumn. The summer recess gives him some three months for rest and recuperation, and it is quite possible that he may feel well enough to remain in office until the Coronation. There is, however, a possibility that there may be a new Prime Minister when Parliament re-assembles. Whatever happens, there can be no questioning the yeoman service which Mr. Baldwin has rendered his country through exceedingly trying times; if it should become necessary for him to retire, there will be widespread regret at the loss of a man whose calm deliberation and sincerity of purpose were never more than they are to-day.

more dangerous than so-called band economic forces."

Though the Republican Party has been fulminating for the better part of three years against the "regimentation" of the nation by the Democrats, its brain trust urges further regimentation by birth control to limit the number of the unfit, by sterilisation to discourage "mere biological urge," and by restriction of marriage where congenital reasons exist.

But first and foremost it advocates "limitation of employment to our own people" by prohibiting all immigration to the United States.

In one delectable sentence it sets forth in support of marriage restrictions that "If no one will marry until he can afford an automobile it is certain that no children will be legitimately born except in families that can afford automobiles."

The Republicans' appeal will be to the upper classes, whereas Mr. Roosevelt's strength lies in the "great body of American middle and lower classes."

Perhaps the biggest factor in his favour is the colossal sums of Government money to be turned loose before the November election. Of this almost £500,000,000 consists of the soldiers' bonus. Farmers benefit payments and public works account for further large amounts.

With these huge sums being poured into the channels of trade in the next six months it would seem to be impossible for American business to go sour or to stagnate during the pre-election period. Hence untoward developments which might threaten the complete triumph of Mr. Roosevelt are not expected.

His Main Support

IN an eighty-page pamphlet entitled "What We Must Do to Save Our Economic System," it describes the population problem as "fundamental," and the most dangerous form of laissez-faire as "that which leaves the quantity and quality of our population to blind biological forces which are cruder and more dangerous than so-called band economic forces."

"FIRST NIGHT" ON FORTHCOMING EVENTS

PHILHARMONIC TO START REHEARSALS FOR "MAID OF THE MOUNTAINS"

THIS WILL BE BUMPER YEAR FOR ENTERTAINMENT

ACCORDING to Chinese lunar calendar, to-day is Li-ch'iu, the Beginning of Autumn.

Perhaps you'll not notice much difference in weather for several weeks to come; nevertheless it is actually the day when people start looking forward hopefully to winter activities.

From now on amateur entertainment clubs and association secretaries, directors and producers will be particularly active.

Here, for instance, is some good news for you about Hongkong Philharmonic Society.

As forecast by Rev. Cyril Brown during stage valedictory to "The Country Girl" last winter, Philharmonic are to produce "Maid of the Mountains" in full costume.

Operetta will be produced at Queen's Theatre during week ending December 19.

Ann Winters, who made sensational local debut in "The Country Girl," will be cast as the Maid, which was played by Jose Collins in original stage production at Home.

Balance of cast not yet decided upon, but understand that Jack Gremham, who also made first Philharmonic appearance with great success, in "The Country Girl" will fill leading comedy role.

Rev. Cyril Brown, who did so well with "Country Girl," is producing "Maid of the Mountains," while musical direction will again be in capable hands of Bandmaster Newell, of East Lancs.

Rumoured that George Goncharoff will arrange Dancing Numbers. Good biz, this, if true.

There'll probably be some changes in this year's Philharmonic.

For instance, it is doubtful whether Bobbie Blake, who was so delightful opposite Jack Gremham in "Country Girl," will be in Colony for "Maid of the Mountains." Understand Miss Blake is leaving Hongkong shortly.

Offsetting Miss Blake's and one or two other departures, however, there's some new arrivals who should prove decided acquisition to Philharmonic circles if they decide to join up.

Philharmonic would do well to approach Mr. E. Warner, of R.A.M.C., whose tenor voice (heard recently over ZBW) is easily the best we've heard in this Colony for many years.

Mrs. L. Blair, one of Hongkong's singers of note, has also returned in time to participate in forthcoming activities, Philharmonic or otherwise.

All in all, Philharmonic are in particularly strong position for forthcoming season, practically whole of "Country Girl" cast, which made such good job of last season's production, is available.

Other amateur entertainers are also preparing for what should be bumper entertainment season.

European Y.M.C.A.

EUROPEAN Y.M.C.A. who, for some mysterious reason, have been left to handle Christmas Pantomimes without competition from more powerful rivals, has chosen "Jack and the Beanstalk" for this year's production.

Ordinarily, this Pantomime would have been produced in West Lounge early in December, but in order not to clash with Philharmonic, Y has decided on Christmas week, with five performances. George Goncharoff will be in charge of ballet; Noreen Cooper and Audrey Steele will probably play Principal Boy and Girl. The "Little Minister" (Rev. J. D. MacLean) is writing the dialogue. Production, as usual, will be in excellent hands of W. Robertson.

Amateur Dramatic Society

PENDING annual meeting, which will be held later this month, Amateur Dramatic Society have not yet decided on plans for forthcoming season. Understood that several excellent plays are in hand for consideration by incoming Committee, one will probably be chosen at end of month.

Hongkong Singers

OLD records for mass singing will topple when Hongkong Singers take the stage at China Fleet Club at end of October or beginning of November for rendition of an all-Elgar programme. Under conductorship of Mr. J. Anderson Miller, Singers, whose work is entirely for charity, have been energetically rehearsing throughout summer in preparation for forthcoming concert.

Elgar's effective "Cantata, 'King Olaf'" will be backbone of two hours' programme of choir work by more than 100 singers, assisted by 30 orchestra performers. The cream of Elgar's remaining works have been chosen to fill in remaining 20 minutes of programme, will include "Death in the Hills", "Evening Scene", "Weary Wind of the West", and "Festina l'Or, Watch the Constellations' Pageantry." In order to choose this portion of programme (lasting 20 minutes) it was necessary for Mr. J. Anderson Miller to examine literally dozens of works.

Soloists for "King Olaf" will be Mr. Anderson Miller, Mr. E. Warner.

March Of Time At Queen's

AS exclusively forecast last Saturday "March of Time" news-reel is here.

First of series (No. 9) will be screened at Queen's Theatre to-morrow, in conjunction with "The ex-Mrs. Bradford". Three subjects are listed.

First shows genesis and spread of Townsend plan for giving America's aged over 60 a U.S.$200 monthly pension, for life. "March of Time's" handling of this subject is a valuable commentary on our times and are of genuine world-wide historic interest.

Short showing the aged Townsend attending meetings have a pathetic and touching quality.

Second subject shows U.S. Secret Service, constabulary and narcotics division co-operating to trap large dope-smuggling ring which last spring flooded Unites with heroin. Smashing of the ring, very interestingly re-enacted, also broke up a band which was fomenting a revolution in Honduras.

Japan's civilising activities in Manchuria and her preparations for annexing five northern Chinese provinces make up third subject.

FILMS

The "Thin Man" Is Here Without His Wife

Film: "The ex-Mrs. Bradford"; Type: Slick Thriller-Comedy; Theatre: Queen's, Commencing To-morrow.

THE "Thin Man" is back again. But William Powell has changed leads since his previous prize-winner, which packed the Star Theatre on its umpteenth run last week, and has substituted Jean Arthur.

"The ex-Mrs. Bradford" finds William Powell, dreamy-eyed, elegantly-moustached, practising his marksmanship with a champagne cork as a preliminary to a lonely dinner served by his man, Eric Blore. It is a good start. And the pace is kept up by the appearance of Jean Arthur, as the ex-wife, with a friend.

The friend, politely introduced, immediately carries a writ for unpaid alimony. The ex-Mrs. Bradford appears to be a diamond-digging blonde, but does not let the colour of her hair, and her innocent-eyes, deceive you. She is really in love with the ex-husband. And he loves her.

Their trouble is that he likes a quiet surgical practice, and needs no more excitement than the casual cutting up of his friends, and she, a writer of murder mysteries, has a talent for getting them both mixed in horrific affairs.

Her reappearance coincides with a race-course sensation. The favourite jockey has fallen off his horse when the race was almost won, and fallen off, dead. Heart failure, says the course doctor. But you know, and I know, and the ex-Mrs. Bradford and Dr. Bradford and the favourite's trainer all know that there's been hanky-panky somewhere.

And so we all get mixed up with thugs, gangsters, bookmakers, safecrackers, and detectives (including Jimmie Gleason) in an exciting melodramatic pursuit from the morgue to the race-track.

There are a couple more unsatisfactory murders and several unsuccessful attempts before the ex-Mrs.

and Mr. A. V. Sanders. Warner is comparatively new arrival in Colony, already gained considerable through ZBW broadcast. Sanders will be remembered for work in "Merry England".

Included in 30 performers in Orchestra (this must be one of the largest orchestras we've had in Hong Kong for many years?) are Misses Prue Lewis, Misses Tonoff, Gonzalez, Solomon, Bard, H. Evelle, German community, including Herr Gipperich, is taking increasing interest in Singers and this winter you'll hear Frau Schreiber, Frau Schausser (both newcomers), Frau Luring, Frau Sauer, Herr Leopold from their ranks.

Notable singers who are actively rehearsing include Mr. Gleed, Rev. Cyril Brown, Rev. H. W. Barnes, Mr. Frank Austin, Mr. Eric Nelson, Mr. Rupert Baldwin, Capt. H. D. Williams, Mr. R. Edwards, Mr. D. R. Luard, Mr. Kingsley Dibley, Mrs. Court, Mrs. Kenyon, Mrs. Low, Miss Sigelis, Miss M. Cooper, Mr. N. E. Bennett, Mrs. E. M. Holz, Mrs. H. Louchart.

Singers are lucky to secure Mr. E. Neil Shaw as Accompanist. Fond lover of good music, His Excellency the Governor takes such a personal interest in Hongkong Singers' activities that he has become President of Society instead of Patron. Chairman is Professor L. T. Rice, who also recently became President of Australian and New Zealand Association.

Proceeds of Singers' productions go to Charity and other deserving causes which have so far benefited to the extent of over $3,000.

RADIO ZBW GAVE A REAL TREAT LAST NIGHT

BY "FIRST NIGHT"

THANKS to ZBW and Miss Helen O'Brien for one of the finest novelty piano programmes broadcast in Hongkong.

ZBW were lucky to secure Miss O'Brien, an Australian on a short visit to this Colony, and listeners were doubly lucky in having the opportunity of hearing her over the air.

Lots of people in Hongkong don't like "jazzy" music. It's safe to say, however, that broadcasts such as the one given by Miss O'Brien last night will send soaring the number of votes for "Jazz" and "Pianofortes" in the Competition we're concurrently running to find out the most popular items with local listeners.

Incidentally, ZBW have booked Miss O'Brien for two further appearances before the Mike. You'll hear her again on Wednesday, Friday next week. Don't miss these dates with your loud-speaker.

FACTS—Piano music runs in Miss O'Brien's family. She's a cousin of the famous Columbia records were often made from ZBW, both before and after her death a year ago. Like Hale, Helen O'Brien has made several records for Columbia. She broadcast, manywhere, including Australia, America, and Japan, and one of the things she can do for she's as much at home with the Masters.

A gratifying number of listeners have entered for the Radio Programme Contest, announced on this page last week, for which Messrs. Philco Distributors Ltd., have offered a $200 received as prize. You'll find further information in to-day's issue of the "Telegraph".

The work of tabulating the entries has already commenced, but no announcement will be made until next Saturday. However, it is expected that some startling upsets will occur when the final figures are announced. The most gratifying response has been in regard to Suggestions, a large percentage of the entries so far received containing one or two for the improvement of ZBW programmes.

Many of the suggestions are decidedly excellent. Some are almost bound to be adopted by the ZBW authorities, who have expressed official interest in the contest.

Entries will definitely close at 4 p.m. on Tuesday next, August 11, and the prize winner will, it is hoped, be announced on this page next Saturday.

CURRENT AFFAIRS TEST

How To Do It

Five possible answers are given for each question. You select what you think is the correct answer, and put its number on the line at the right of the number of the question on the answer sheet.

Example: a. The Prime Minister of Great Britain is (1) MacDonald, (2) Chamberlain, (3) Hailsham, (4) Baldwin, (5) Lloyd George.

Baldwin is the correct answer. The number of this question is 9; the number 5 (meaning Baldwin) has been placed at the right of 9 on the answer sheet.

At the end of the Test check your replies with the answers given on Page 2. AND DON'T PEEP.

In our opinion, 20 is a good score, 25 very good indeed. There are no prizes.

Home Affairs

1.—There has been strong criticism of a speech delivered in Paris by Britain's Secretary of State for War. He is: (1) Lord Hailsham, (2) Sir Philip Sassoon, (3) Mr. Runciman, (4) Mr. Duff Cooper, (5) Mr. Malcolm MacDonald.

2.—The declared policy of the League of Nations Union in regard to the continuance of sanctions has led to the resignation of: (1) Dr. Gilbert Murray, (2) Sir Austen Chamberlain, (3) Mr. H. G. Wells, (4) Mr. Anthony Eden, (5) Lord Beaverbrook.

3.—Heavy rainfall in the Colony during the early part of the week substantially added to the water supply. The biggest reservoir in Hongkong is Shing Mun which, when completed, will have a storage capacity of approximately (1) 3,000,000,000 gallons; (2) 1,000,000,000 gallons; (3) 3,000,000 million gallons; (4) 1,000,000 million gallons; (5) 100,000,000 gallons.

4.—The Socialist winner at the Derby by-election is one of the "intellectuals" of the party. He is: (1) Capt. Wedgwood Benn, (2) Mr. G. D. H. Cole, (3) Mr. Philip Noel-Baker, (4) Mr. H. Tawney, (5) Professor Laski.

Girls' and Boys' Corner

Dear Kiddies,

Quite a number of entries came in for last week's Competition, in which you were asked to select an advertisement from the "Telegraph" and colour it. Most of you chose the H.B. Beer advertisement, which certainly lent itself excellently to colouring. In two or three entries, the competitors drew the picture as well as colouring it; that wasn't necessary. Still, some of these were quite good.

Taking age and neatness into account, I find, on looking through the entries, that the best effort in the Senior Section was that of a colouring of the "Frigidaire" advertisement sent in by

Daphne Ho (aged 14), 17 Belfran Road, Kowloon Tong; whilst in the Junior Section the winner is Grace Lau (aged 7), 518 Nathan Road—Kowloon, who chose Caldwell, Macgregor's advertisement of Dry Sack sherry.

Will the winners call at the "Telegraph" Office for their prizes? Specially commanded for good work are Pauline Strange, Isobel Morrison, Fernando Alves, Celeste Marques, Regina Xavier, Mimi da Roza, Mary Lau, Ho Shuk-chun and Eileen Grant amongst the Seniors; and Fred Ha, Violetta dos Remedios, Charlie Churn, Corrado Gorla, Robert Lau and Louisa da Silva amongst the Juniors.

NEW COMPETITION

Now, children, I'm going to give you something quite new for this week's Competition. I want you all to try to make a cut-out picture. Let me explain how to do it.

All you have to do is to cut out any parts of pictures appearing in this issue of the "Telegraph" or the Supplement (advertisements or otherwise) and stick them on a piece of paper or cardbord so as to make a complete picture. You should take care to arrange the pieces so that they make complete sense.

There will again be two prizes—one for children from 10 to 14 years, and the other for those under 10. These will be awarded for the best pictures sent in, age of course, being taken into consideration. Now, kiddies, see how good a job you can do.

Entries, which should be addressed to Uncle Eddie, s/o "Hongkong Telegraph," must be sent in by 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

PROBLEM I

HOW OLD AM I?

A certain number of years ago my brother's age was twice my age and my father's age was twice my brother's age. Nine years hence my brother's age will be twice what my age is now, and five years hence my father's age will be three times what my age is now.

How old am I?

"When I joined the Pinkshirts, a secret society operating in Monrovia," said Morris, "I had a curious experience. The secretary or whatever he was, said to me, 'What's your name?'"

"Morris," I replied. "He thought hard for a moment. Then he said, 'That won't do.' . . . 'Won't do?' said I. 'Why not?'"

"Because," said he, "everyone has to have a number, and if your name Morris your number is taken already. He consulted a little book. 'Here we are—Bobson, Watson, Snooka. Your number would be the same as Watson's.' You'd better change it to—let me see—Wister; then you'll come next after Snooka."

"How did they make that out?" said I.

"I never discovered," said Morris. "Telegraph" solvers are more intelligent than that; so

What was "Wister's" number?

All-Night "Concerts" From Crowing Cockerels INTERESTING CASE COMES UP IN SURREY

A case in which it was alleged that 760 cockerels crowing throughout the night forced neighbours of a poultry farm, but to one brought up in the farm at Egham, Surrey, to close their bedroom windows, stuff their ears with cotton wool, and pull the bed-clothes over their heads in a vain endeavour to shut out the noise, came before Mr. Justice Greaves Lord in the King's Bench Division, London, last month.

Mr. John Albert Leeman, of Thorpe Cottage, Thorpe, Surrey, applied for an injunction to restrain the Hon. Gerald Samuel Montagu from committing a nuisance, the nuisance being the noise created by having a large number of cockerels on his land, and, in particular, on that part of his land adjoining the property of the plaintiff.

Mr. John W. Morris, K.C., for Mr. Leeman, said that Mr. and Mrs. Leeman bought their house for £4,600 in September last year.

The cockerels were in such numbers and cackled in such a way that the noise by day and night was quite intolerable. The enjoyment of the plaintiff's property was seriously impaired, and it would be quite impossible to go on unless something were done.

The Judge—You must not think that I am in any way prejudging your case.

The Judge—Poultry are not like children, you know. You cannot drive them into their houses at night; you can't trap them there sometimes.

When the plaintiff interviewed the defendant, said Mr. Morris, he told them he had 760 cockerels, but was selling them and hoped that they would all be gone at the end of the month.

Plaintiff went away for a few days, and when they came back the position was just as bad as before. It was so bad that they had to try all sorts of devices to try to get to sleep. They closed the windows of their bedrooms—in a very unpleasant thing to have to do—they even tried covering themselves over with their bed-clothes. But try as they would, it was impossible to exclude the noise of these cockerels.

Mr. Morris read letters which passed between Mr. Leeman and defendant. He said they did not wish to harm Mr. Montagu in any way but simply to prevent what he hoped to prove was an interference with the ordinary use of their property.

Mr. Morris added that gramophone records had been made of the noise, and arrangements made to reproduce the noise in Court.

"ALL CROWING TOGETHER"

Mr. Leeman, giving evidence, said he took over the house in September 1935. On the first night he was kept awake by the incessant crowing. It was like a screeching noise—like a pack of wolves in full cry. During the day there were only a few cockerels crowing, but at night they were all crowing together.

Mr. Archer, cross-examining, read a letter written by Mr. Leeman in which he said that Mr. Montagu's original statement that the nuisance would cease by the end of November had not been realized and that he asked for all the cockerels to be removed within 14 days.

The Judge—For cockerels to be removed within 14 days would be removed within 14 days would be difficult without losing all its charms. (Laughter.) Are you not using all through the language of exaggeration?

Plaintiff—I have been very distressed and upset about this noise. When one cannot get sleep one is worried by it, and one might use certain expressions which do not necessarily even trial covering themselves over with their bed-clothes. But try as they would, it was impossible to exclude the noise of these cockerels.

GRAMOPHONE RECORDS MADE

Hornell L. Day, a recording engineer, gave evidence that he prepared records of the sounds that he had heard. He made the recording in the corner of the garden of plaintiff's house at 3.10 a.m. and 4.30 a.m., and in Mr. Leeman's bedroom at 3.15 a.m. and 4.30 a.m. The records were in Court and could be played.

When Mr. Morris asked for the records to be played, Mr. Archer objected on a question of inadmissibility. Its cogency, he contended, was nil, and the volume of sound could be regulated.

The Judge said that to reproduce them properly they must be reproduced in the conditions under which they were taken.

Mr. Morris (to the Judge)—If it is permissible, and if you would like to accept the hospitality of a party to the action, he would be delighted to offer you the best bedroom in the house. (Laughter.)

The Judge—I am not disposed to accept it.

In reply to Mr. Morris, who asked Mr. Day what sort of noise he heard at 2.30 in the morning, Mr. Day said that there were two or three crowing intervals, and they started in chorus, going up to numbers which were impossible to count. The noise got so loud and it was so distorting to the ear that it actually gave one a headache to listen to it. The noise continued from the time he left, which was six o'clock in the morning.

WITNESS'S COMPARISON

The Judge—Have you any idea how many there were?

Mr. Day—No, it was impossible to say. It was simply a scratch that the ear could not possibly accommodate.

SECRET OF TWO SEA GIANTS

Germany To Challenge France

Scientists
Follow The Cosmic Ray

Pasadena, Calif., July 20.
The trail of the mysterious Cosmic ray, sub-atomic bullets that pepper the earth and its inhabitants from some unknown source in the outer reaches of space, has turned toward Panama and the equatorial belt.

Two young scientists—"ray hunters" for Dr. Robert A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology—headed southward with five tons of baggage, consisting chiefly of ponderous magnetic equipment in which to trap the little-known sub-atomic particles.

Dr. Millikan announced the latest expedition in search of the origin of the billion-volt particles, which rain down upon the earth's surface with 10,000 times greater than any previously known rays, in a talk before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in session here.

50,000 PHOTOGRAPHS

The purpose of experiments on the equator, in which approximately 50,000 photographs of cosmic rays will be shot through a special device developed by Dr. Millikan and Dr. Carl D. Anderson, will be to determine the effect of the blanket of magnetic resistance around the earth in the region of its greatest intensity.

Last summer the cumbersome instrument, which is merely a vapour tube set within a powerful magnetic field energized by portative generators, was hauled up Pike's peak for high altitude photographs. Strange pictures were developed, one showing a shower of atomic particles blasted out of the nucleus of an atom which, measured by the bend in the paths, were estimated carrying a charge of 20,000,000,000 electronic volts.

POWERFUL RAYS

Dr. Millikan explained that this figure compares with 2,000,000 electronic volts measured in Gamma rays, of radium, the most powerful rays previously measured and approximately 200,000 electronic volts measured in the ordinary x-ray.

The tremendously powerful cosmic ray, "discovered" about five years ago, has sent science on its most tantalizing search since Young developed the now outmoded "wave theory" of light 100 years ago.

"We speculated about cosmic rays, and I was one of the worst speculators," Dr. Millikan told the electrical engineering group. "We found we could not resolve the problem until we could measure the power of the rays."

"RAY TRAP"

Dr. Anderson's "ray trap" is the answer. Dr. Millikan explained they had "hoped to develop a magnet that would measure up to 1,000,000,000 electronic volts."

By photographing the path of an atomic particle, blasted out of an atomic nucleus as the cosmic ray shot through the vapour chamber,

EFFECT OF TOO MUCH HOMEWORK
ON SCHOOL-CHILDREN

As the result of an enquiry among parents carried out by Dr. Martin, a well-known Sydney psychologist, the following facts were discovered:

Girls between the ages of 11 and 14 studying for the Intermediate examination were required to do two and a half hours of work each night and to carry books weighing from 9 to 12 lbs. Those in the leaving examination classes have to spend up to 5 hours a night in study and their books weighed from 15 to 18 lbs. Their working hours, in many instances, he pointed out to Austral News, totalled more than those of their fathers and elder brothers.

Doctors Say—

TWENTIETH-CENTURY
DISEASES WILL DIE

Chicago, Aug. 1.
Diseases die too, as well as their victims, and the day may come when man no longer will be plagued by tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid and syphilis, the Journal of the American Medical Association reports.

For pessimists, the Journal points out that new diseases doubtless will arise to replace them but recognition by modern science that new ills may have a "life span" and so can be detected and guarded against in the beginning of their evolution may save future generations.

"The life history of a disease is often like that of a human being," the Journal said. "Its weak or healthy infancy is at first greeted with mild speculation. As it gradually grows, it develops the proportions of a young adult and abundant vigour. Finally, after varying periods of strength, the old age and decline of a disease may begin to occur. In some instances it finally disappears."

SWEATING SICKNESS

Thus, the Journal recalled, the so-called sweating sickness, from which the curve of the bend can be measured, representing the resultant between the direction of the magnetic field and the direction of the ray.

By measuring the bend, the electronic voltage of the ray can be determined. In the case of the single 20,000,000,000 volt ray, a shower of more than 100 particles were blasted out of the nucleus, ranging from 60,000,000 to 1,500,000,000 electronic volts in each particle.

Dr. Millikan said the Pike's Peak experiments showed rays, including rare "Cosmic ray showers," are far more powerful than at sea levels.

These results will be compared with photographs taken by Dr. Anderson and Dr. Seth H. Neddermeyer, his assistant, at Panama, where the magnet and vapour tube will be mounted at the U. S. Naval submarine base.—United Press.

Dr. Anderson's "ray trap" is the answer. Dr. Millikan explained they had "hoped to develop a magnet that would measure up to 1,000,000,000 electronic volts."

By photographing the path of an atomic particle, blasted out of an atomic nucleus as the cosmic ray shot through the vapour chamber,

Building
Luxury
Liners:
"No Fuss"

GERMANY is quietly preparing to make a "come-back" in the North Atlantic.

It is said that two liners, modelled on Britain's "Grand Old Lady," the Mauretania, are being built in a German yard.

They are designed to have an average speed of 33 knots, with reserve power to bring them up to 35 knots.

The two new ships are likely to make their appearance without fuss or ceremony, though it is believed that they will present a serious threat to the four days three hours fourteen minutes record of the Normandie and to the hopes of the Queen Mary.

Meanwhile, the Queen Mary is about to be overhauled.

A number of engineers from the Clydebank yard of John Brown and Co. Ltd., the Queen Mary's builders, will arrive at Southampton at the end of next week to "take possession" of the liner after she has arrived back from her third voyage, for a nine days' overhaul and dry docking.

When the necessary adjustments have been made it is expected that the Queen Mary will be in a position to go all out and to achieve the average she reached in her trials, known only to half a dozen people, but generally believed to be in the neighbourhood of 33 knots.

She Gave Aviation
The Air

—FOR MATRIMONY

San Francisco, July 31.
Katherine May, the first girl to fly a million miles as a worker in one of women's most modern professions—an airline stewardess—has placed her chic uniform among her souvenirs and opened her hope chest to take out the apron which will be the uniform of her new career—that of housewife.

She formally deserted the airways for the kitchen in announcing her forthcoming marriage to Ted Johnson of Salt Lake City, Utah, airline dispatcher who sent her ship into the sky numberless times.

"I know I'm going to miss my work, although it did become just riding around," she said.

MODERN JOB'

Petite, pink-cheeked Katherine, to whom soaring between Salt Lake City and San Francisco several times a week since 1930 became monotonous, had refused to abandon the air lines until she achieved one ambition.

"I met Ted three years ago," she explained, "and we finally decided to get married last January but I was so near to the million mile mark that I couldn't bear to quit flying and I had passed it. I have kept a log book of my mileage since the first flight six years ago."

Miss May is the last of the original class of stewardesses to "graduate" from the work of feeding, soothing and generally "mothering" airline passengers.

The profession was originated by United Airlines in 1930. Eight registered nurses were selected and assigned as crew members. The experiment proved so successful that the job is standard on all major airlines and more than 5,000 girls have made application for the few vacancies.

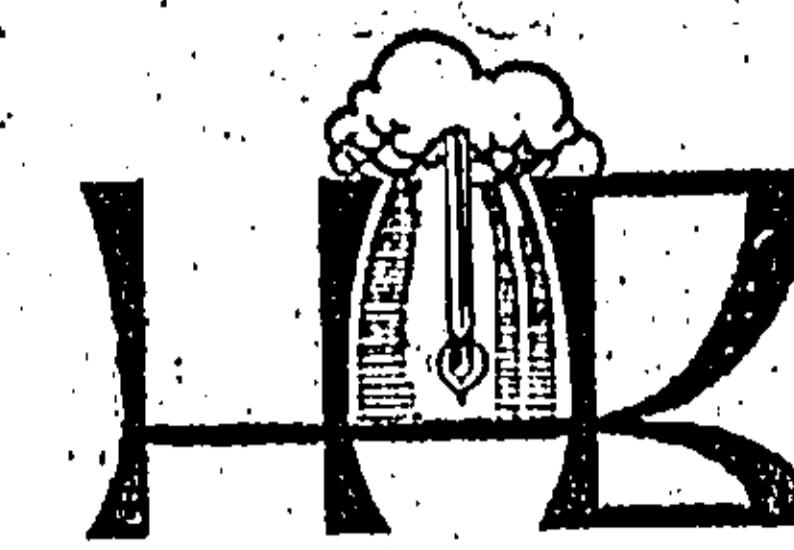

JUST LIKE THE FOLLIES

"I guess the stewardesses are just like Follies girls," one pilot said, "as I watched Miss May step into a waiting cab to be whisked from the airport."

"They're so damned beautiful and they always get married and we never see them again."

Miss May was born near Birden, Illinois.

"I first wanted to fly when I saw an old warplane flying over our farm," she said. "But there wasn't a place in commercial aviation for a girl when I started to work. So I turned to nursing and got my certificate. It proved to be the entering wedge into the career I wanted so much."—United Press.

PLUCKY EFFORT FAILS

JAPANESE CLEVER

MAKEWHIRLWIND FINISH

Berlin, Aug. 7. China lost to Japan in the Olympic basketball competition to-day after a courageous display against tricky opponents. Japan won by 35 to 19, after leading at half-time 15-10.

Chinese were very plucky in the first half and the game was extremely even up to the first part of the second half. Thereafter the Japanese increased their pace, showering the posts during the last five minutes.

—Reuter.

JAPAN'S SMART FINISH

The game started with both teams indulging in long passing and long trials for goal, and there were few skirmishes. The Japanese, asserting their greater experience and tightening their concentration, sported shortly before half-time to make the score 15-10.

The Chinese opened the second half with an attempt to regain the lead, but the Japanese were the faster out-

Jack Iddon, Lancashire batsman, who scored a fine century against Kent and made a notable contribution to Lancashire's victory by five wickets.

HOME CRICKET

LANCS' SPLENDID VICTORY

Yorkshire In Form

Berlin, Aug. 7. For the first time for many weeks, the majority of county cricket matches finished to-day with decisive results.

One of the best victories of the day was that of Lancashire over Kent, after the Hop county had declared their second innings. Lancashire were set to score 241 to win and they accomplished this with the loss of five wickets.

Yorkshire returned to their best form against Worcester winning by an innings. After Leyland had contributed a century, first Verity, and then Smale, got among the wickets and Worcester were twice dismissed for less than 100.

Nine centuries were scored, while nine bowlers met with varying successes.

The results and individual performances are cabled by Reuter, follow.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Somerset (193 and 122/2) beat Glamorgan (207 and 106) by eight wickets.

Middlesex (110 and 19/1) beat Gloucestershire (154 and 273) by nine wickets.

Lancashire (232 and 241/5) beat Kent (275 and 197/7 dec.) by five wickets.

Yorkshire (384) beat Worcestershire (94 and 75) by an innings and 25.

Derbyshire (321) beat Surrey (201 and 315/7) on first innings.

Notts (309) beat Leicestershire (249) on first innings.

OTHER MATCHES

Warwickshire (181 and 219/3 dec.) drew with All-India (249 and 51/3).

RUNS PER OVER

As simple a way as any of making the comparison, is one suggested by Mr. Weigall in a letter which appeared lately in The Observer, that is, by ascertaining the number of runs made off each over. In some respects this is better than taking the runs made per hour, for circumstances, such as the constant shifting of the field for a left-hander, may interrupt the batsman's opportunities of making runs. All that you can reasonably ask of any batsman, ancient or modern, is that he should score off as many of the balls bowled to him as he can, and it is obvious that the more runs he makes off six balls, the more lively and attractive the cricket will be to watch.

The first fixture which I examined was that old-established annual Gentlemen and Players, at Lord's. Beginning with 1874, I took every tenth year down to 1934, and, after adjusting the figures to the six-ball over of to-day, obtain at the following result:

SO FAT HER HUSBAND WAS ASHAMED

"Agony of Trying to Dress Well"

A married woman writes:—"My husband was ashamed to walk with me, because I was so fat. Only those people who are fat know the agony of trying to dress well and keep up with the times. I weighed 15 stone 6 lbs. before taking the first bottle now, and am down to 13 stone 8 lbs. or less.

"When I used to do my daily exercises I was too tired to do my housework. Now I can hop, skip and jump with any of my thinner friends—which sure amazes everyone. They are telling me that I look so much younger. So I think all the credit is due to the daily dose of Kruschen Salts."—(Mrs.) G. M.

The "little daily dose" of Kruschen Salts keeps the organs functioning properly every day, and fills you with such a feeling of radiant vitality and vigour that before you know it you are fairly "jumping out of your skin" with energy. Instead of moping around—and reduction follows as a matter of course.

KOWLOON FOOTBALL CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

SCHEMES TO IMPROVE CLUBHOUSE: LAY DOWN BOWLING GREEN

The decision to replace the hard courts of the Kowloon Football Club by a bowling green though still leaving grass courts available for tennis during the free season, was one of the resolutions adopted by the 25 or so members who attended the 22nd annual general meeting yesterday.

Mr. T. A. Mitchell, President, was in the chair, and others present included Messrs. T. G. Stokes, R. Hall, J. McElvye, A. S. Bliss (Hon. Secretary) and J. P. White (Hon. Treasurer).

The Chairman said: "Our Honorary Secretary, considering a profit of $143.68, is not 'satisfactory' and from your Committee's viewpoint it must be considered so; but whether the ordinary members of the Club will agree is another point. To me, whilst satisfactory, it is disappointing. Last year we turned the corner with the team that I thought would give such an exhibition of football that our gates would show a material increase and so put your Committee in a position to have something concrete to place before you this evening regarding the Club-house. The First Team did well, but unfortunately not well enough to put them on the upper half of the League table. They were not a threat to any of the teams running for honours, consequently poor attendances at their home games were experienced; but the most unfortunate part was the hurried close to the Season and our inability to play mid-week games."

INADEQUATE TEAMS

There were certain revenue-producing gates which did not come up to expectations, which in a measure was due to the composition of the teams fielded by our rivals, arising out of circumstances not entirely under their control. This, of course, can be laid down to the manner in which the Football Association in recent years has allowed Clubs to postpone and re-arrange fixtures without taking into consideration any of the hardships that might befall others, and allowing depleted teams to turn out. I sincerely hope that in the ensuing Season the good resolutions, and pay for sufficient ball boys, I am that are held by the Hongkong Football Association will be carried through and that fixtures are maintained in accordance with the programme laid down.

At last year's Meeting I regretted the absence of your Chairman, Mr. R. Hall, and promised that on his return to me, again took over the reins of office, I would take an early opportunity of discussing with him the question of a new Club-house. Gentlemen, that discussion was held but it boiled itself down, as it has in former years, as to what we were going to use for money. All sorts of schemes for raising the money were discussed but with every conceivable workable scheme could not be framed. Consequently I have again to apologise for the present condition of the Club-house.

VALUE OF TENNIS

Club funds in the main accrue from gates at football matches. Good teams receive the best support. It is therefore incumbent upon the players to carry out their part towards the Club's maintenance, which is laid down to the manner in which the Football Association in recent years has allowed Clubs to postpone and re-arrange fixtures without taking into consideration any of the hardships that might befall others, and allowing depleted teams to turn out. I sincerely hope that in the ensuing Season the good resolutions, and pay for sufficient ball boys, I am exceptionally hard to keep the Club on the right side. Expenditure has been cut to a minimum, but there is one item that I must single out as a non-supporting proposition; and that is the Tennis Section. Some members might think that this costs nothing once the courts have been laid, but forget that we must renew from time to time the various nets and screens and pay for sufficient ball boys. I am of the opinion that better use could be made of the ground the hard Courts now occupy. It has been whispered to me that we should lose some members if we were to cut out the Tennis Section, but it is my opinion that we would gain more were we to offer something in its place, and I understand there is a proposition to be put before the meeting later this evening regarding this. I will refrain from saying more on this subject.

I have already mentioned the First Eleven and I am hopeful that with the signatures we already have we shall be able to field竟然ly the same team which showed so much improvement towards the end of last Season and with one or two signatures we expect to get before the Season starts we sincerely hope the wishes of the Committee will be fulfilled. They played as good football as most of the teams that came here and just that extra little bit of loss, usually necessary, would have shown us a different result.

A BRAVE 2ND XI

Regarding the Second Eleven, I have nothing but praise for them. They managed to fulfil all their fixtures and very seldom did they turn out with a depleted team. Immortal of whether they had been beaten 6-0 the week before they came back for more. I would appeal to the Members of the Club to give more support to our junior players by turning out and attending the games, not only on our own grounds but travelling with the team and giving encouragement to the youngsters.

The changes in the Committee have been many, but at each meeting there has been practically a full muster of ex-opted members and our Secretary and Treasurer to be congratulated on the good work they have put in for the Club. Our Bar Convenor has also been on the job, spending his day looking after the interests of the members, and is to be congratulated on the way he has managed to keep the Staff up to scratch and to preserve the harmony which should at all times prevail.

TEACHERS' APATHY

Our efforts on behalf of Charity call for a good deal of time, thought and work, and I regret the very small amount that we were able this year to hand over to this cause. I feel that amongst the members of this Club more should be done to enable your Committee greatly to augment the

The Association would appreciate very much if the matches arranged for September 19 and 26 will be by mutual arrangements by the clubs played off before these dates fixed in order to shorten the season.

Before the meeting terminated, the Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. F. J. Jones, of the Civil Service C.C., for the splendid work he has done for the Association during the last few years. Mr. Jones leaves for England to-day.

SCORING PAST AND PRESENT

keeps them from being dull, makes run-getting a restrained process. You find here a rate as low as thirty-six per hour in 1872, and I should think you could discover without difficulty years when it was much slower than that.

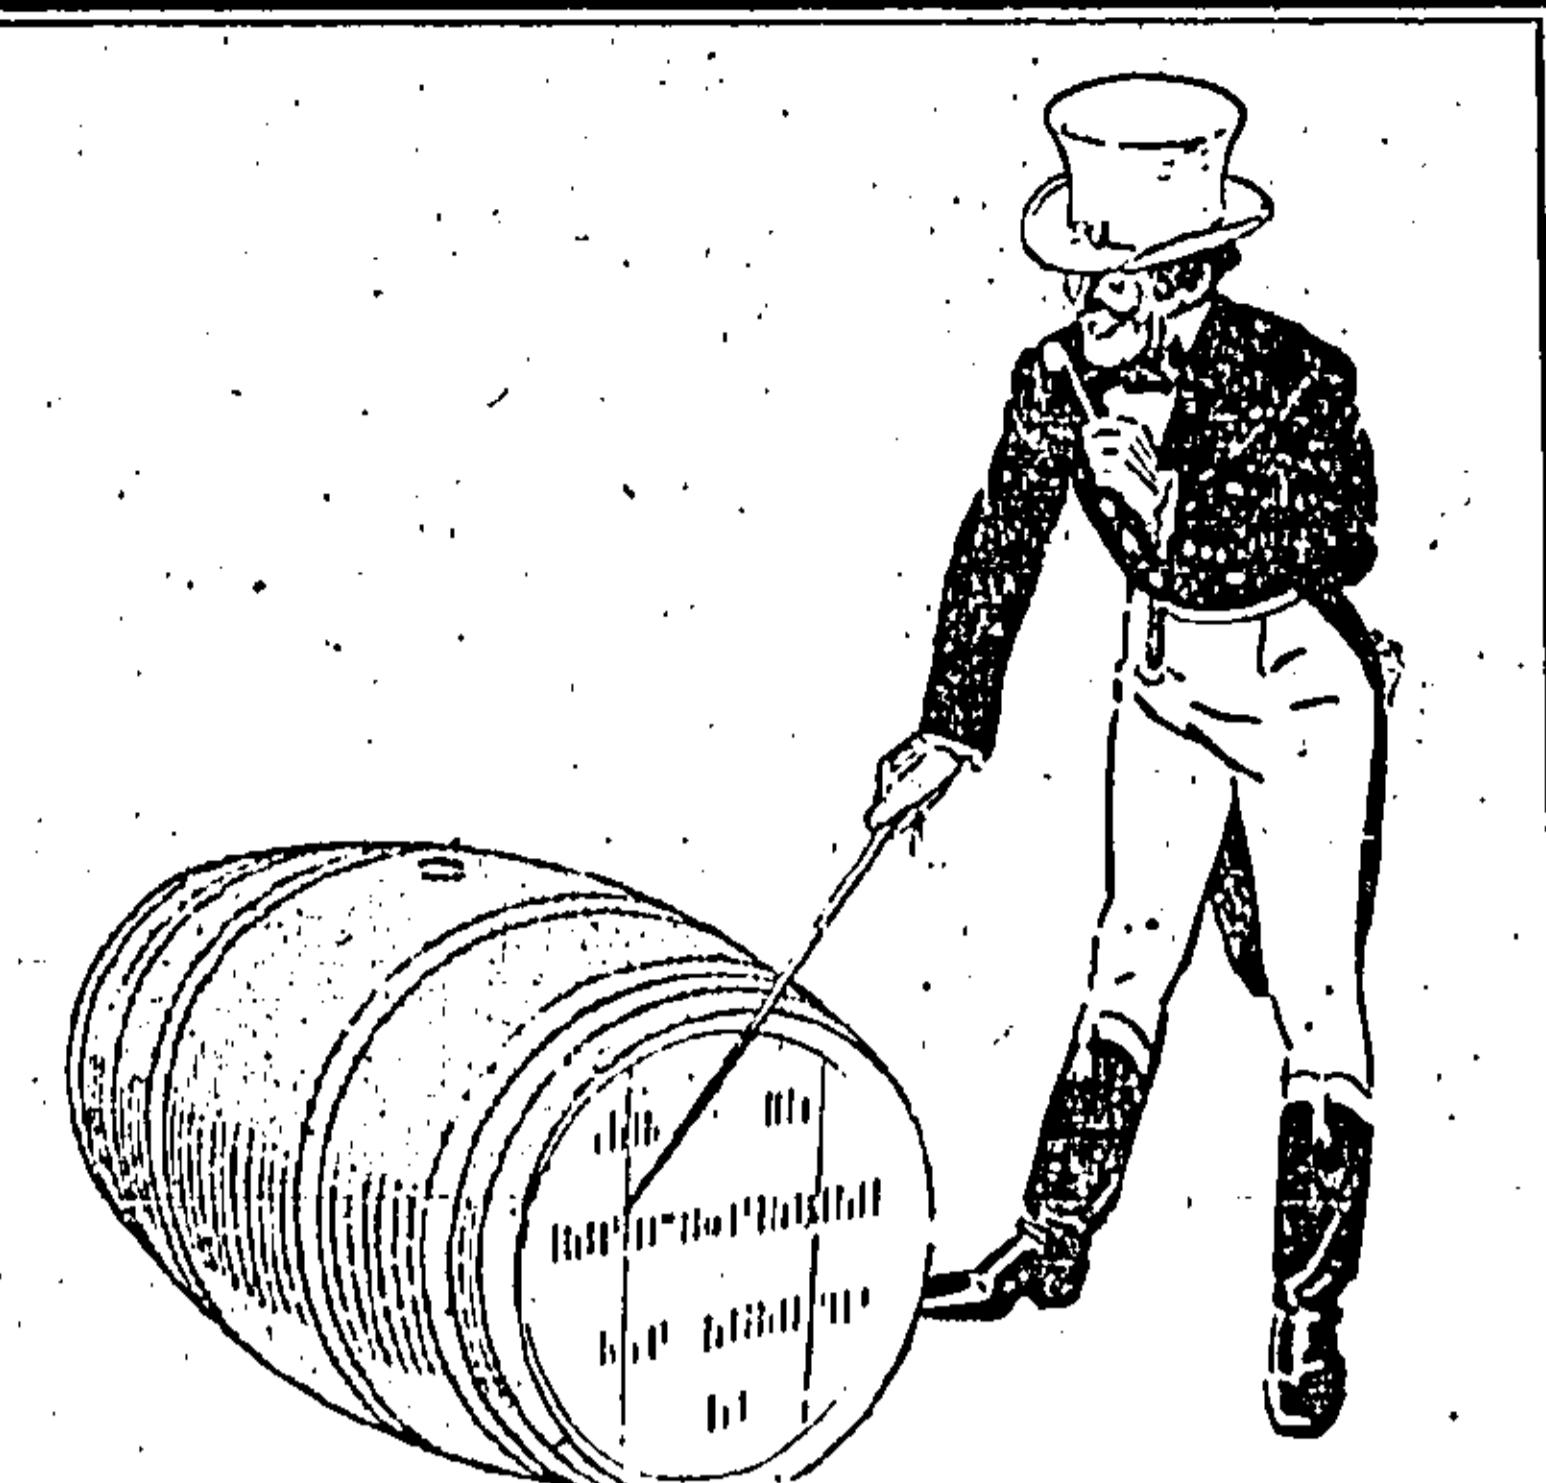

Half a century ago the Surrey and Middlesex elevens were more representative of amateur than of professional cricket. The idea used to prevail that amateur batsmen were more free in style and more inclined to hitting than professional batsmen, but that distinction no longer holds good. The great professionals of modern days, Hobbs or Hammond or Leyland, have been, or are, as vigorous in their methods as their amateur contemporaries.

One more word may be added. In an age much more remote than the date with which we have been dealing first-class cricket was run by that eighteenth century enthusiast, the Duke of Dorset. A poetical admirer speaks in rhyme of the Duke's exhilarating style.

Or blocking every ball at play,
He firmly stands with bat upright,
And strikes with his athletic might.
It is instructive to remember that those discouraging comments which may be heard at Lord's to-day are only, after all, the same as those that were heard on Broad-halfpenny Down, when cricket looked back upon a more limited history than it does now.

sum we have this year paid over, and when our usual Charity match comes round I hope that you will do all possible to induce your friends to attend. Your Committee experienced great difficulty in fixing the Annual Football Match, Kowloon School Boys versus Hongkong School Boys. The difficulty lay in our inability to arouse any interest amongst the British Schoolmasters in Kowloon and had it not been for the able assistance of Brother Edmunds of La Salle College the game could not have gone on—this after three months trying to get the interest of the Masters at the Kowloon British School.

"I haven't seen you for years"

—said Johnnie Walker

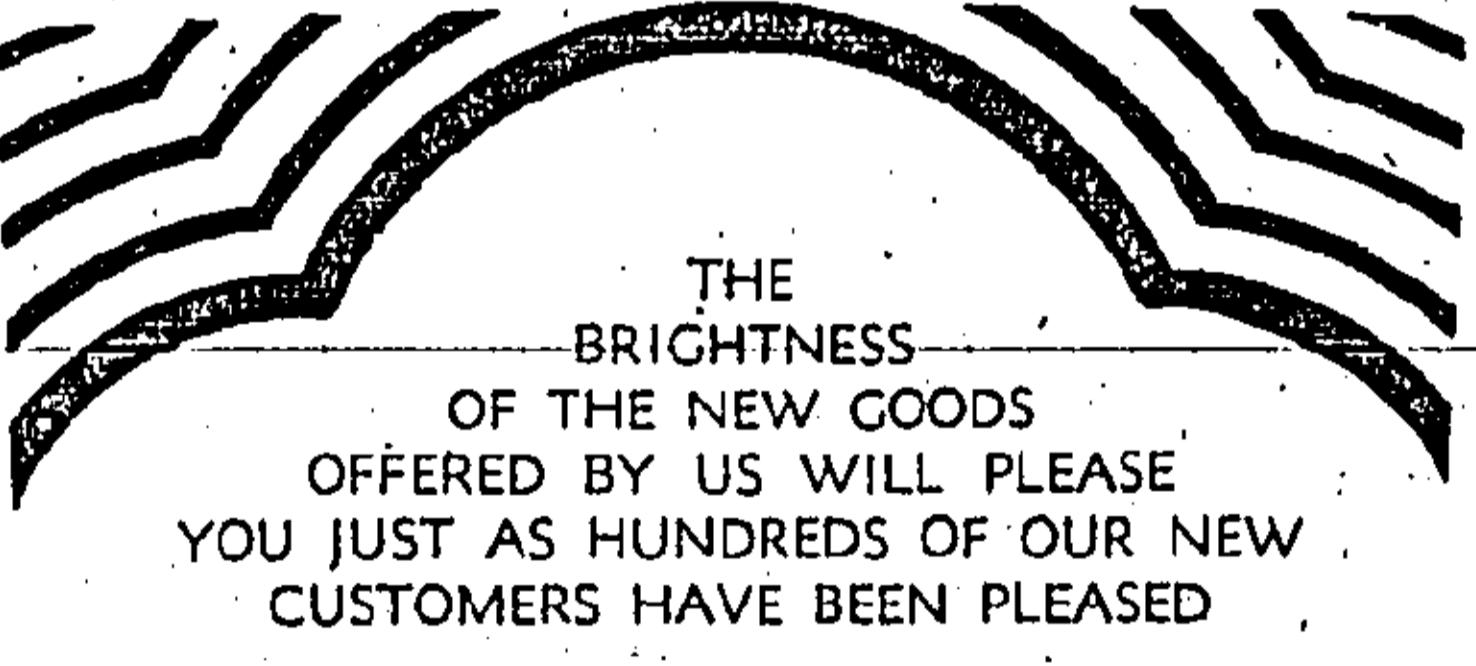

The last time Johnnie Walker saw this cask of whisky it was the "new make," and was about to be stored away to begin the long natural process of maturing.

Now, after a number of years, the whisky has "grown up," and is to be blended with other good matured whiskies into an even better whisky—Johnnie Walker. Because of its natural "roundness," Johnnie Walker is most valuable and refreshing in all climates. It's always worth while asking for Johnnie Walker by name.

[WHAT I SAW IN RUSSIA—5]

We travelled through some very pleasant country until we reached a collective farm in the village of Dvorechny "meeting-place of two rivers."

The farm was called Nadir and it was formerly the property of some wealthy landowner. It was founded originally as a farm in 1922, but was then much smaller. There were now 163 families in the village, and they farmed 1,200 hectares, or 3,000 acres. This was divided up among cattle, dairy farm, vegetables, wheat, and so on.

It was a poor village apparently, and the chairman of the farm, a young peasant, said they formerly had more land than they had at present. They had 120 cows on the collective farm and the peasants, and 80 others on their own property. In addition, the farm now had 23 calves.

The peasants came together and in 1933 they elected a director and a board of management. A new election was due to take place now.

The farm really was managed by a co-operative production society and the work was organized in three brigades, (1) dealing with pasture, (2) with field work, and (3) with the kitchen gardens and vegetable produce.

When the farm was first organized in 1922, they had only 33 members and farmed 60 hectares and they had only 8 horses. Now they had 120 horses. In 1934 they had 12 horses and rented two tractors from the state.

They had a good deal of money on account to the property and in building. They had an annual balance sheet and the proportion which was to be put by for these purposes was decided by the members. They received from the Government a bonus for their good work.

EVERY member of the farm worked on task work which was fixed at so many labour days. These labour days were not "time days," but represented a certain fixed amount of work which the member was expected to complete.

Then these days were entered in the books of the collective farm. When the crop was sold, after the Government had taken its fixed share, the surplus was divided among the members in accordance with the number of working days they had to their credit.

An allowance was also made for taxes, depreciation and repairs. Some of the peasants had more than 400 working days to their credit, but, of course, the return they received depended on the harvest yield.

The part of the actual crop which the peasant took was sold by him in the open market. The collective farm gave some assistance in transporting the goods there, or even sold them for him.

Then we went to inspect the farm buildings. First we visited the restaurant which was situated in an old and somewhat dilapidated main building, with accommodation for possibly forty people at small tables.

I was struck by the ranged dresses of many of the peasants. Some of them wore good boots, but their clothes were for the most part mud-stained and tattered. Scarcely any of the women wore boots, and none of the children.

As for the clothing of the children, particularly the boys, much of it had been cut down after serving for many years their parents' or someone else's use.

THE farm buildings were all clean, but, like most of the houses, jerry-built; the walls being made of a sort of lath framework with mud and straw plastered over it.

We saw the very young calves, some of which were only a few days old, and all of which looked healthy and well-cared-for. There was no sign of lack of food anywhere, and the children all appeared to be strong and well-fed. On this small farm they had had 70 calves and 16 foals this year.

I went into several peasants' houses. The first was that of one of the nine Communists who are employed on the farm. It consisted of two rooms, both a fairly good size, the larger one being about 18 by 16 feet and at least 10 feet high.

It was the former residence of one of the servants of the owner whose property had been confiscated. The smaller room was about 12 feet square, and there was a family of five living in these two rooms.

There was a large brick stove, lime-washed, which filled at least a quarter of both apartments.

The next house was very similar to the first except that it had sheds at the rear of the house which were still more battered than those of the first house. None the less, both houses were very clean and the walls inside and out were lime-washed.

The people, too, were delightfully friendly and cheerful. I felt that there was an immense amount of good sense and hearty feeling among these people, as well as enthusiasm, which the Soviet, no doubt, do not underestimate.

We then went to the village club, a wooden building in which the collective farm invested 6,000 rubles, and which had a small meeting hall as well as a tiny library.

The newest feature of tractors showing the spare parts, and pictures showing how necessary it was for the peasants to work steadily instead of being their time away and not attending to their crops.

OUTSIDE this place, although it was Sunday, there were about forty women working, sorting out potatoes. We had been told that Sunday was always taken as a rest day by the peasants, who steadfastly take no notice of the five-day week.

Here at least they were hard at it. Not one of them had boots, but they and the children who came in crowds to see us were a thorough, happy-looking lot of people, despite their abysmal poverty.

Then we saw a village crèche, where the peasant children were being trained to go to sleep at the scheduled time, just like those in the factories.

The system, indeed, was the same as in the factories, and the rules also.

The only difference was that there was one shift only and the children were in the crèche from eight in the morning until after six in the evening, and all seemed perfectly well cared for and sturdy looking.

We returned to the hotel at 5 p.m., after which we went to the Labour Commune for children, called the Derjinsky Children's Home. This was a colony for homeless and criminally defective children.

It was established in 1927 by the GPU (the State Political Police) and received its name from the then head of that organisation. They took children about thirteen to fourteen years of age, and these remained until they were about eighteen or so.

Both boys and girls were accommodated, and at present they have about 500 children on the place.

The Commune was self-supporting and had its own factories, which made electric drills, tools and photographic apparatus. The children spent half their day in the factories and the remainder in school about four hours being devoted to each.

They were divided into fourteen groups, each under a "boy commander." These fourteen formed a council which was permanently responsible for the administration of the home.

The children were paid for their work. Some of the best categories received 150 roubles a month. From this about 65 per cent. was deducted for board and lodging, and the remaining 35 per cent. was retained pending the boy's departure.

In addition, they received approximately 600 roubles from the State to help them start in life.

Just once asked him this question, I estimated that about 3,000 roubles would have accumulated by the time the boy was ready for departure.

I asked their position was not comparable to any trade union movement in the world. They were as far as I could see, entrusted with functions which in other countries were carried out by the State itself. They were, in fact, State organisations, and I could not see that they had any really separate existence.

With regard to the collective agreements, I had been struck by the fact that there were sometimes 100 per cent. to even 200 per cent. below the actual earnings. How was this? Was it due to lack of experience, or was it really due to fixing the collective rate so low that it was only vague guess? They said that the Unions could not forecast definitely what was going to happen in the year or the life of the agreement.

I POINTED out that the State Planning Commission was able to calculate fairly well the production of industry, and so they must know the output of the individual worker equally well. It seemed to me that too much was left to rate fixers and such people.

The Chairman said that the money wage was not the most important factor. The emphasis was on the social wage, and the Unions more and more pressed for an increase of this.

I asked what was the proportion of the social wage to the total. The Chairman said he thought it was about 45 per cent., but it was difficult to put into figures. I asked him if this was a much higher figure than I had estimated, and elsewhere, where it was estimated at about 33 per cent.

We could not complete our conversation because the train started to go in the middle of our talk, and away we went for Dniepropetrovsk in the south.

NEWS IN PHOTOGRAPHS

In the yard of the historical museum at Dresden the tournament jousts of the middle ages are revived. As the picture shows no efforts have been avoided to make the scene as authentic as possible.

Recently in the presence of a large gathering of officials of the French Concession, the new splendidly equipped research laboratory was officially opened by the French Ambassador, M. Paul Emile Naggar, which constituted his first public function since arrival in the Northern city. Upper photo shows one of the scientific rooms which form an important section of the work of the institution. Lower photo shows M. Naggar (left) declaring the building open. On the French Ambassador's left is M. Maudez, French Consul-General and M. A. S. Jaspar, head of the French Municipal Department which directs the activities of public welfare in the Concession.

Fine Arts Club Exhibition

HIGH STANDARD OF WORK AT GLOUCESTER SHOW

High standard of work is seen in the Chinese Fine Arts Club Exhibition which is being held under the auspices of the Hong Kong Working Artists Guild at the Gloucester Building first floor.

All the exhibitors, who are past students of the late Mr. Koa Ki-fung, eminent artist, are perfect and skillful draftsmen. Unlike Mr. Ma Man-lee, whose one-man show, it will be recalled, was held at China Building a month ago, who paints "out of his head," they make direct studies from Nature and in fact their best works are those done in this manner. In this respect their works are in common with Western Art except that these are more decisive and direct, without any initial "pencilling" stage, and hence the more vital.

Heading the catalogue is Mr. Chiu Shiu-pong, a perfect colourist, whose studies of birds and flowers are unsurpassed. No. 1 is a harmony of black—a scheme rarely achieved by western artists. No. 5, "Cocktail," is a study that has all the delicate colours one may expect from a bird of this nature. No. 11 is a charming study of flowers.

Mr. Ho Chiu-yuen and Mr. Yung Shau-shek's treatment is somewhat less sensitive both in tone and in colour. In the subject of landscape, however, the former has retained and upheld the tradition of Chinese Art, but in his "Stag in Snow" (No. 52) the treatment is westernised. Mr. Yung Shau-shek has not fully utilised the liquid wash technique except in a few "misty" subjects. "Java Sparrows" (No. 101) is a very accurate study both in colour and in form.

Mr. Chow Yat-fung has made great advance in his colour scheme. It will be remembered that during the last Exhibition of the same Club held in December last at China Building he only exhibited monochrome drawings of which he no doubt is a master, in some of the present entries will show. He has a very original outlook in his landscape composition and his Pine Tree studies (Nos. 25-28) are as masterly as they are appealing. No. 22, "A Scene in Kwellin," has a very attractive and unusual composition. His other subjects, however, do not appear to be so attractive.

Mr. Ip Shiu-ping is more concerned in observation, so that his subjects are more accurately rendered. In Nos. 71 & 72 all the goldfish have a foreshortening which is nothing less than marvellous. The rendering of bubbles blown through water also shows keen observation. His use of white is masterly, as Nos. 59 & 70 will show. This applies to Mr. Wong Shu-keung's case (No. 97, Untamed) and No. 95 (Goddess of Mercy). At his best, however, is his characteristic study of poor people and toilers, such as No. 94, which reminds me of Gaudin.

All the pictures shown should be worth at least double their marked price, the reason for their unusually low price being the necessity for raising sufficient funds to cover the expense of the exhibition. Art lovers will afford this rare opportunity of securing fine Chinese Art.

COLONY'S CREDIT BALANCE SLIGHT DECREASE IN MAY

Financial returns issued by the Government show that the Colony's credit balance at the end of May was $13,112,076, against $13,141,002 at the end of April.

Revenue from January to May inclusive totalled $12,460,726, against $11,903,219 for the corresponding period last year, the respective expenditure figures being $11,735,418 and $11,252,502.

Rioting has occurred in various parts of Madeira, owing to a Government decree raising the price of bread and butter.

Two warships are being rushed from Portugal, in case of emergency.

Armed police were called out, and after a few hours they suppressed the rioting, in which a number of rioters were injured. All is now normal.—Reuter Special.

Funchal, Aug. 7.

Financial returns issued by the Government show that the Colony's credit balance at the end of May was $13,112,076, against $13,141,002 at the end of April.

Revenue from January to May inclusive totalled $12,460,726, against $11,903,219 for the corresponding period last year, the respective expenditure figures being $11,735,418 and $11,252,502.

Rioting has occurred in various parts of Madeira, owing to a Government decree raising the price of bread and butter.

Two warships are being rushed from Portugal, in case of emergency.

Armed police were called out, and after a few hours they suppressed the rioting, in which a number of rioters were injured. All is now normal.—Reuter Special.
